The IRISH

Set the Pace in Fads, Friendships,

We, the Pendleton "Irish," set the pace in our community, in our school, in our activities, and in our sports. By doing this we arouse others and become recognized as leaders because we are willing to put forth the extra effort needed. We live in a friendly, helpful community that is willing to give extra effort to maintain and improve that reputation.

In a world divided by "curtains" we here at Pendleton High learn through the advantages of a free-education. Our well-trained teachers help us in developing our talents and abilities to the fullest. Our courses are geared to the space-age world in which we live, and Pendleton students leave prepared to meet the ever-changing challenges of life. Our organizations provide activities and experiences for all those preparing for leadership and foresee the need of cooperation with others. We "Irish" are leaders in team spirit. This group spirit is shown not only in the athletic field, but also in the cooperation given to advance our school and community and to serve later an ever-changing society.

Yes, in all endeavors, THE IRISH SET THE PACE.

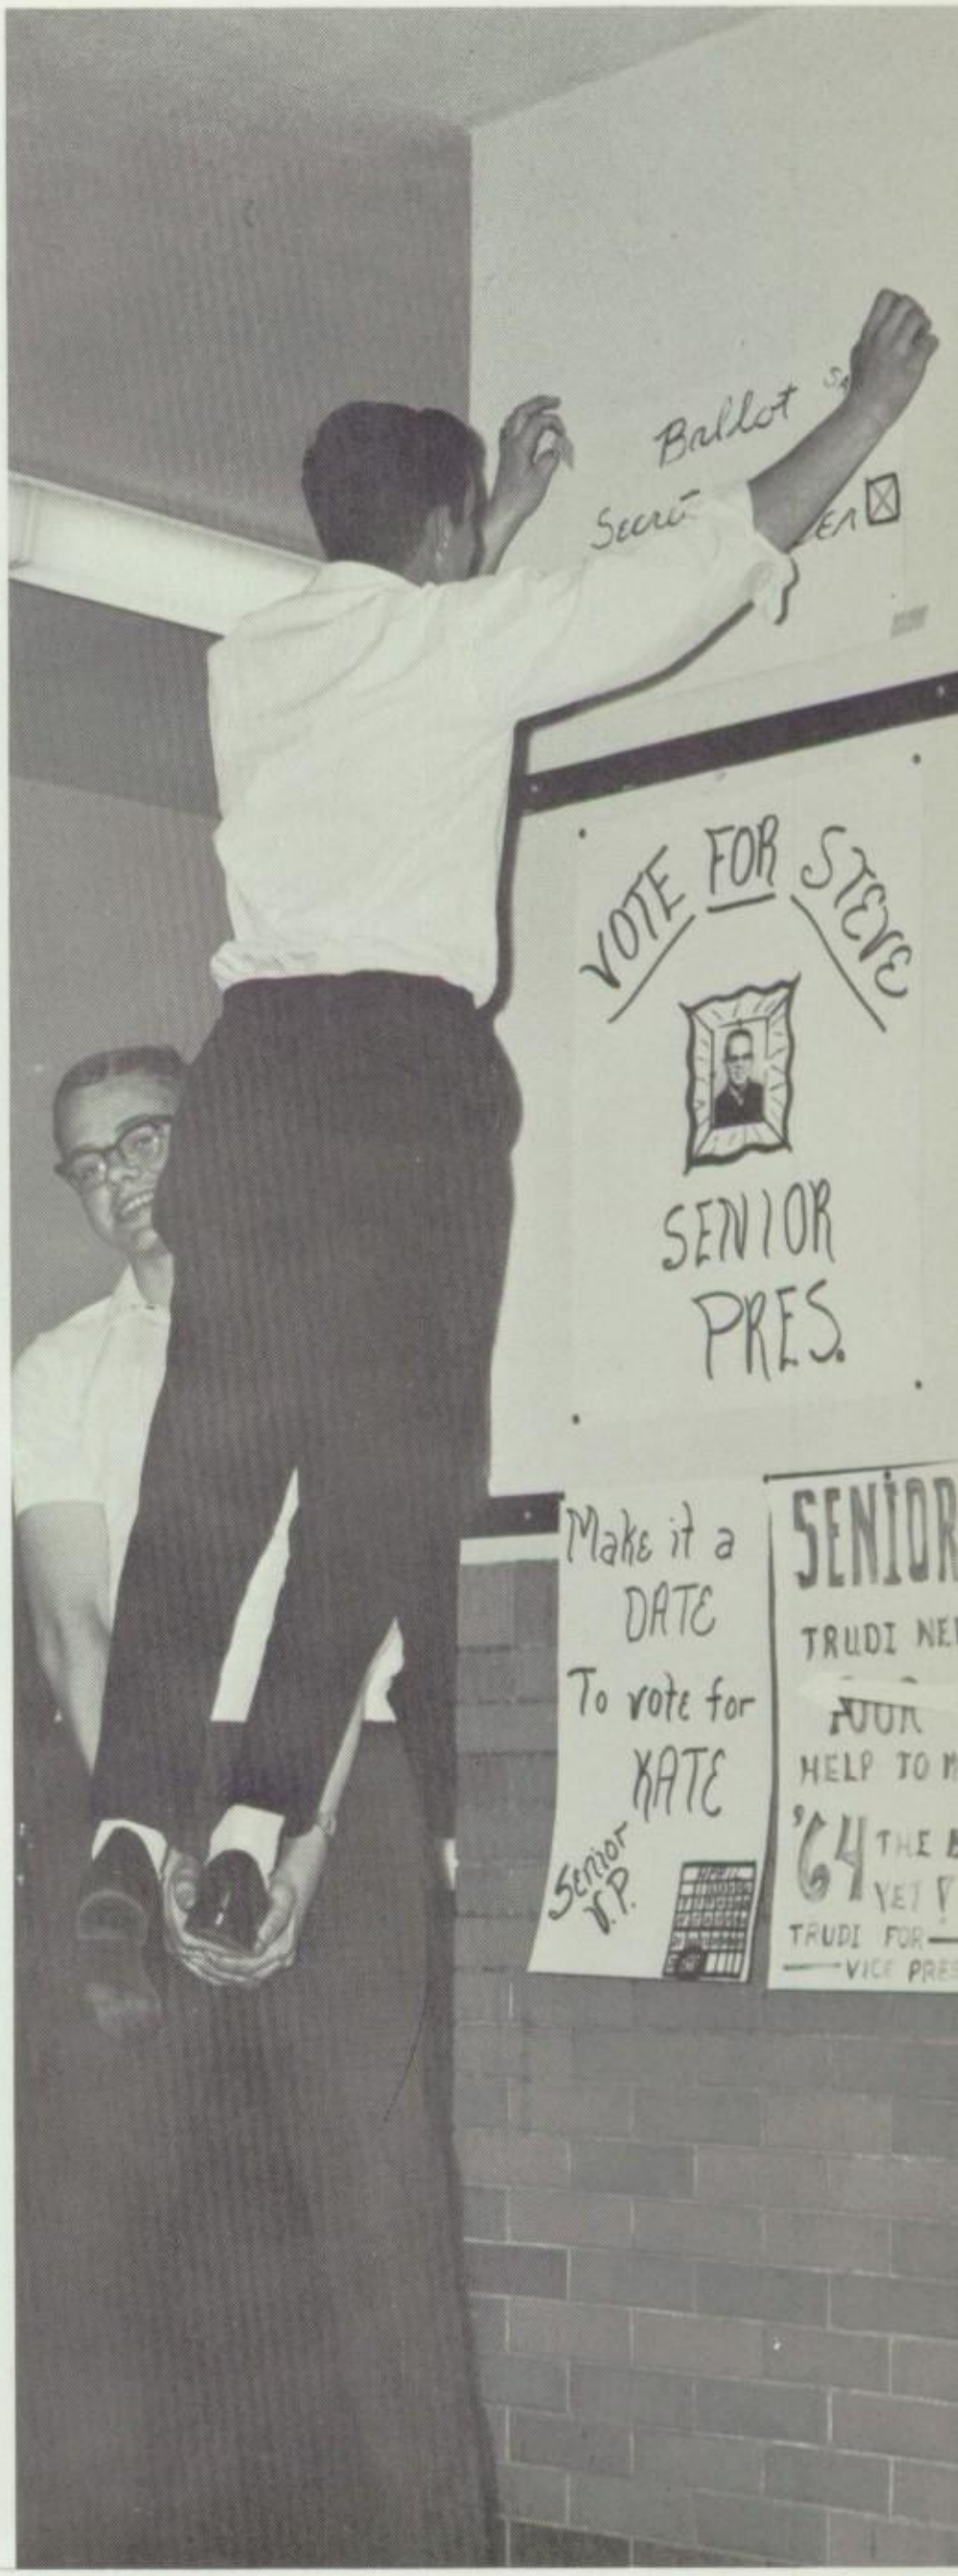
Studies, and Campaigns

Karen Brown, Mary Cox, Judy Robinson, and Ponny Rumler illustrate the fads of the year.



Nanci Walters, Sunshine Girl of the Year.

Glamour Added to 1963 Social Functions

Friends and classmates share with us our laughter, work, and dreams, and help us through our trying moments, sorrows, and problems. While stimulating and guiding us in becoming better citizens, the organizations also help us to make new acquaintances and to join with them in their endeavors. Some organizations elect Girls of the Year to recognize and award those members of the club who have leadership, citizenship, character, and scholarship, and who put forth extra effort to serve the organization.

Home room sales were accented with posters and attractive displays like the one being admired by Glennellen McKinley, Carolyn Leigh, and Margaret Renicker.

Yearbook queen candidates for 1963 are shown as they smile into the camera. They are Penny Stohler, Kay Foster, Betty Norris, Tonya Wimmer, Karen Miller, Ann Martin, Carol Carollo, Norma Stephenson.

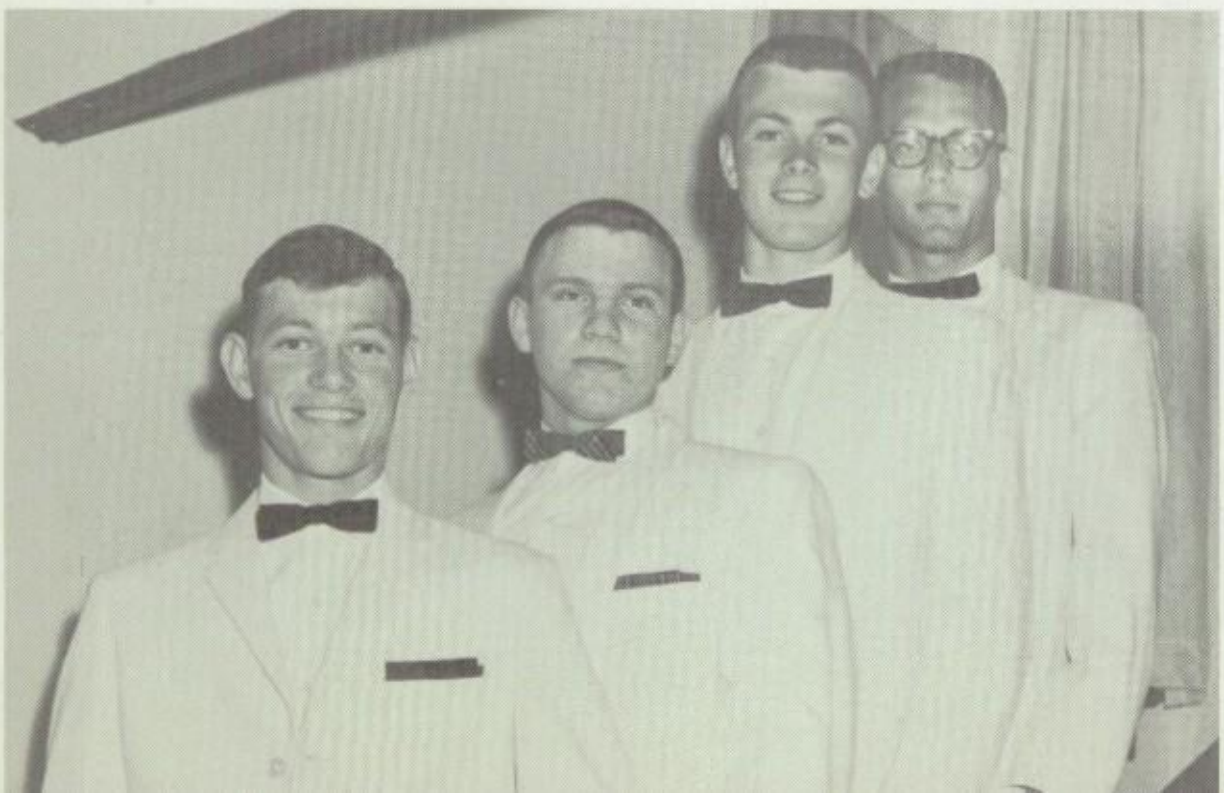
Ronica Lewark

This year's Prom was held May tenth, with the theme "Misty Gardens" carried out in beautiful decorations. For the first time the Prom was open, adding a special touch for some of the members of the two classes. The music furnished by the Phi Mu Cru Band will linger long in the memories of Juniors and Seniors.



Virgil Bankson; Dennis Latour; Allan Baker, king; Mike Miller.

Climaxes a Successful Year for Juniors

Rhoda Riley; Beverly Pettigrew; Marsha Harris; Carol Carollo, princess; Jennifer Mingle.

Virgil Mabrey; Rusty Bodenhorn, prince; Jeff Hanna.

Interesting Convos Vary Busy Schedules

Convocations, which are not only entertaining but informative as well, provide a welcome break from school work. During the year we had convocations about car safety, science, and vocal music, and were privileged to have the Ball State choir sing for us. The bands and choirs of Frankton and Summitville provided us with pleasure as they performed.

The auditorium was the scene of two class plays. "The Night of January 16" put on by the Juniors, was a murder trial in which the jury was chosen from the audience. The scenes in "A Man Called Peter," given by the Seniors, ranged from light comedy to deep religion.

Acting Successes Draw Record Crowds

Individuals Receive Scholastic Honors

These students from Pendleton High School received awards. SEATED: Claire Campbell, Marilyn Johnson, Jeanne Brown; STANDING: Billie Tolbert, Jim Ifert, and Kathy Rector.

Pendleton High is proud of the honors won by its students. Jeanne Brown was runner-up in the national English contest. In a medical essay contest the three Madison County winners were Marilyn Johnson, first; Claire Campbell, second; Kathy Rector, third. Representing our school in the Miss Christmas Carol essay contest was Billie Tolbert. Jim Ifert was selected by the Madison County Bar Association to attend the Indiana Supreme Court on Law Day. Chosen to receive the Daughters of American Revolution award was Norma Stephenson. Jim Barnes received the Bausch Lomb Science award for outstanding achievement. Joe Jackson was presented with an Air Force award for his exhibit in the science fair. First place winners in a regional contest were Kirby Carey in second year Spanish, Doug Dickson in comprehensive math, and Steve Hanna in algebra. Both Doug and Steve received bronze medals in the state contest.

Industrious Seniors Reach Their Goals

The Top Ten students of the 1963 class were honored at a banquet given annually by the Pendleton Chamber of Commerce on May 7. The speaker for the occasion was Dr. Reardon, President of Anderson College.

To encourage students to put forth their best efforts and develop their abilities, the Chamber of Commerce has held these honorary dinners since 1959.

Marilyn Johnson is congratulated by Dr. Bond, national president of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons. Marilyn's essay on "The Advantages of the American Free Enterprise System over Communism" was awarded first place in the national contest sponsored by the Association.

Superintendent and Board of Education

The superintendent, representing the State Department of Education and the local school board as executive officer, puts into operation their policies.

As a professional educator, he is responsible for effective instruction and pupil growth, for suggested improvement of the present school facilities, and for the management of school curriculum. He fills the community's need as an adequate leader of our younger generation.

An efficient secretary is a real asset. Here Mrs. Haner endeavors to keep the books up to date.

SEATED: Mrs. Janet McLaughlin, president; Mr. Harold Smith, superintendent; Mr. Marion Morris, secretary. STANDING: Mr. Dale Michael, treasurer; Mr. Frank DeWitt, vice-president; Mr. Everett Foust, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Guide School Activities and Policies

Promoting the best interests of the students in the community and guiding the program of the schools are the responsibilities placed upon the Board of Education.

Some of their duties as prescribed by the state law involve providing school appliances necessary for efficient operation. Remodeling of the junior high and the installation of new lights in the high school were visible changes made this year.

The sight of the North Junior High Building brings back memories not easily forgotten by many. Workmen, putting finishing touches to the remodeling, make the building look new.

Principal Oversees Well-rounded Program

The principal's office is always a busy place as Mr. Miller, Miss Borden, Mrs. Reighard, or any student secretary will agree wholeheartedly. As principal, Mr. Miller's duties include such things as supervising school curricula and activities, counseling with students and parents, and overseeing a well-rounded and efficient program of school life. Miss Borden, assistant principal, keeps attendance records and permanent records, and helps keep office and school activities running smoothly. As treasurer of the extra-curricular fund, Mrs. Reighard has charge of all receipts and disbursements. She also acts as office receptionist and high school secretary.

Athletic Board Sets Standards

The Athletic Board, in cooperation with the Indiana High School Athletic Association, supervises high school athletic activities and funds. SEATED: Mr. H. Smith, Miss C. Borden, Mr. E. Miller. STANDING: Mr. C. Floyd, Mr. J. Carey, Mr. J. Crosley, Mr. M. Morris, Mr. R. McCory. (Mr. Keithley, absent)

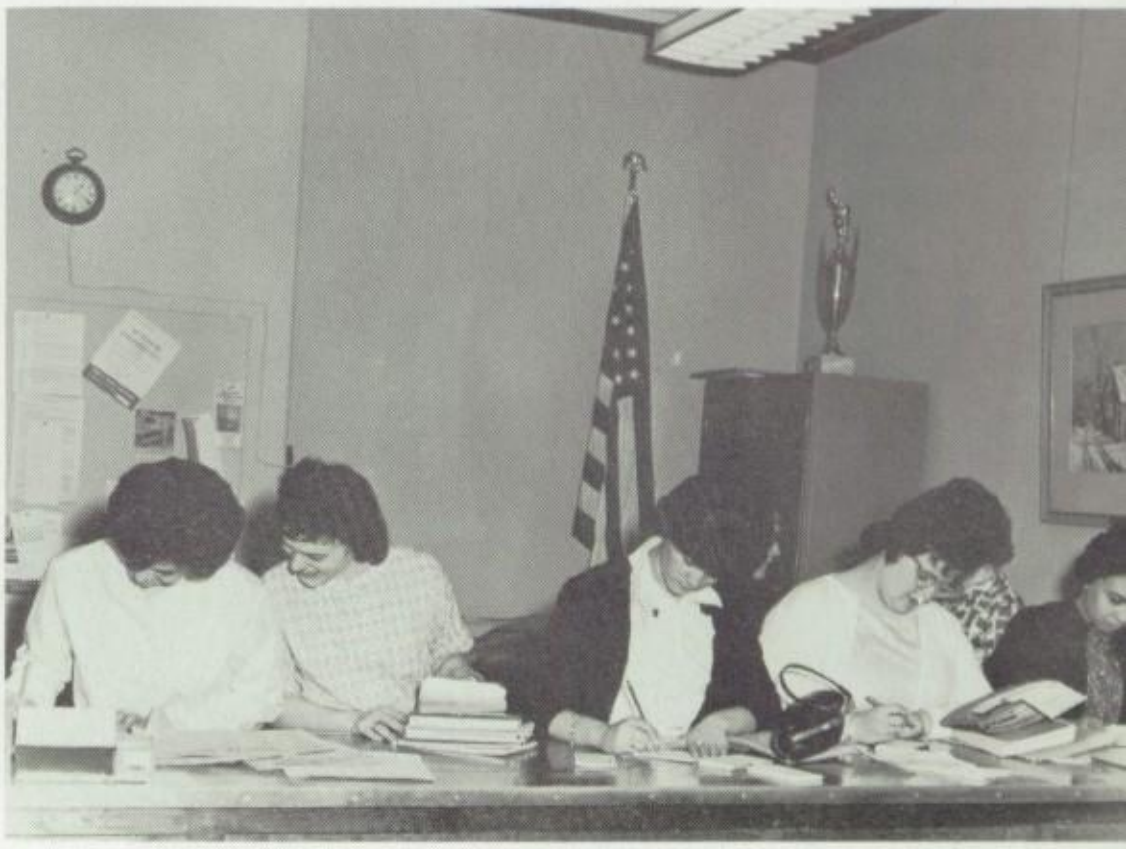
Students gather in the office to turn in excuses, to write announcements, to check balances, to fill out meeting forms, or merely to ask questions.



KNEELING: W. Porter, R. Miller, K. Davis, B. Hammond, J. Main, L. Robinson. STANDING: F. Poore, J. Holloway, H. Mingle, R. Young, J. Moore, W. Smith, F. Smith, J. Lovell.

Dependable Personnel Provide

SITTING: L. Nesbit, N. Wright, M. Robertson, M. Prigg, R. Jones, M. Schug, N. Smith L. McLary.

Keeping the school clean and shining and in tip-top shape is an endless job for Mr. Kenny Lukens and Mr. Frank Lukens.

Service and Aid to All Students

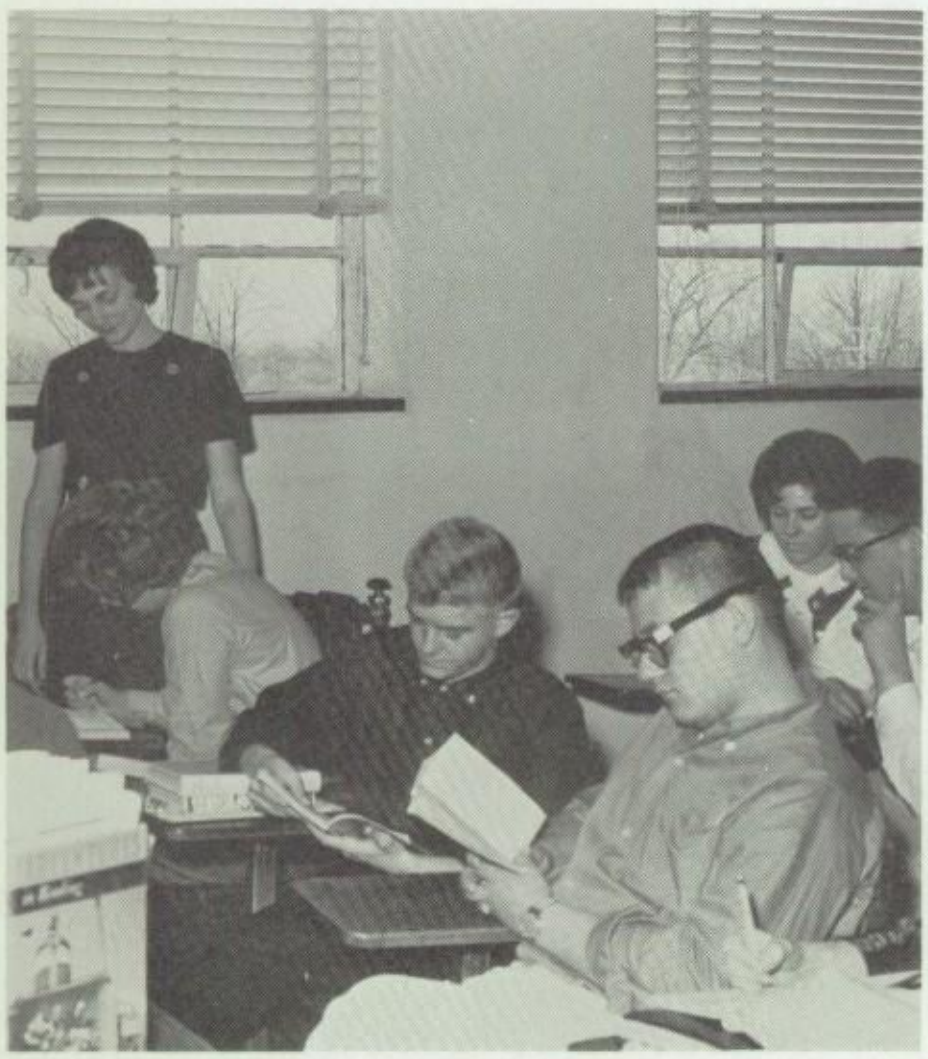
Flash Cards and Reports Stimulate Learning

Seniors in English 12 classes this year read of foreign countries and their famous authors. Ronica Lewark, Betty Masters, and Sue Langsdale prepare a bulletin board on Ireland.

English is an important course for all students. When hunting for a job, writing letters, or conversing with friends, all need to speak and write correctly. English composition helps students express themselves in writing and prepare for the many themes that will be written in college. Oral reports and supplementary reading on background material add to their knowledge of literature. Dramatizations arouse interest and aid the student in self-expression.

In order to better understand the people of other countries and to develop new friendships, each member of the Spanish classes has a pen pal in a Spanish-speaking country. The members experience the thrill of participating in the customs of these countries by giving plays, singing songs, and breaking the piñata. The use of the tape recorder helps many students speak Spanish more fluently.



Mrs. Avery assists her Freshman English class as they prepare the next day's assignment.

Speaking and Reading Open New Worlds

Speech covers a wide area of subject matter including telephone conversations, oral interpretation, pantomiming, storytelling, and dramatizations. Panel discussions prove to be interesting for all as panelists express their views on topics, such as lowering the voting age, segregation, school dropouts, cheating, Common Market, proposed Indiana seaport, and working mothers. Fiery debating takes place as students attempt to get their bills passed during parliamentary procedure.

Skill is required in developing reading speed, the keynote to developmental reading. Using the reading pacer and tachistoscope, students work at their own level on short stories and novels. They maintain and build their speed by timing themselves, using projectors, and testing themselves afterward.

Practicing what they have learned in developmental reading, Harry Porter and Connie Scott increase their speed.

Social Problems, World-Wide Crises, and . . .

In World Geography class, students have the chance to learn about foreign countries as well as their own. Sharon Froman and Pam Davis inspect the globe.

The beginning of man and the development of civilization through the years comprise the study of world history. The days of Rome and Greece, the Dark Ages, the days of King Arthur, and the Renaissance come to life as students display their skills with outside reports, drawings, and other projects.

The countries of the world are made up of many types of land formations and climates. In the study of geography, students discover more about the inhabitants of these regions and some of their customs.

The study of social relations in a continually changing environment proves interesting to pupils of sociology. Students find that our sociological problems of today are great. After profound research for term papers this year, each person was able to express his personal ideas as he led the class in a discussion on the topic he had chosen.

Individual Thoughts Make Lively Discussions

Mr. Hoover demonstrates a point to his psychology class.

Psychology is the study of the mind and the way it functions. The students learn to understand their own actions and the actions of others and to find solutions to problems which confront them.

"International Television Via Telstar," "Blockade Around Cuba," "Bayh Over Capehart," were some of the headlines which caught the eyes of students in world events. It has been a year of importance marked by a surge in science and politics, with international crises adding to world-wide tension.

THE ANDERSON HERALD
Nehru Puts India On War Footing; Chou Opens New Front
KENNEDY ORDERS NAVAL BLOCKADE AROUND CUBA
CUBAN BLOCKADE ORDERED: RUSS WARNED BY KENNEDY

Equations and Slide Rules Baffle Scholars

"I'm glad you remembered this point, Janice," says Mr. Berry, and Janice A. Fisher smiles with approval.

Mathematics is a universal language that everybody can understand. It cannot be changed, but only added to, and is one in which we communicate with people of different countries. That is why it is necessary to excel in mathematics as much as possible.

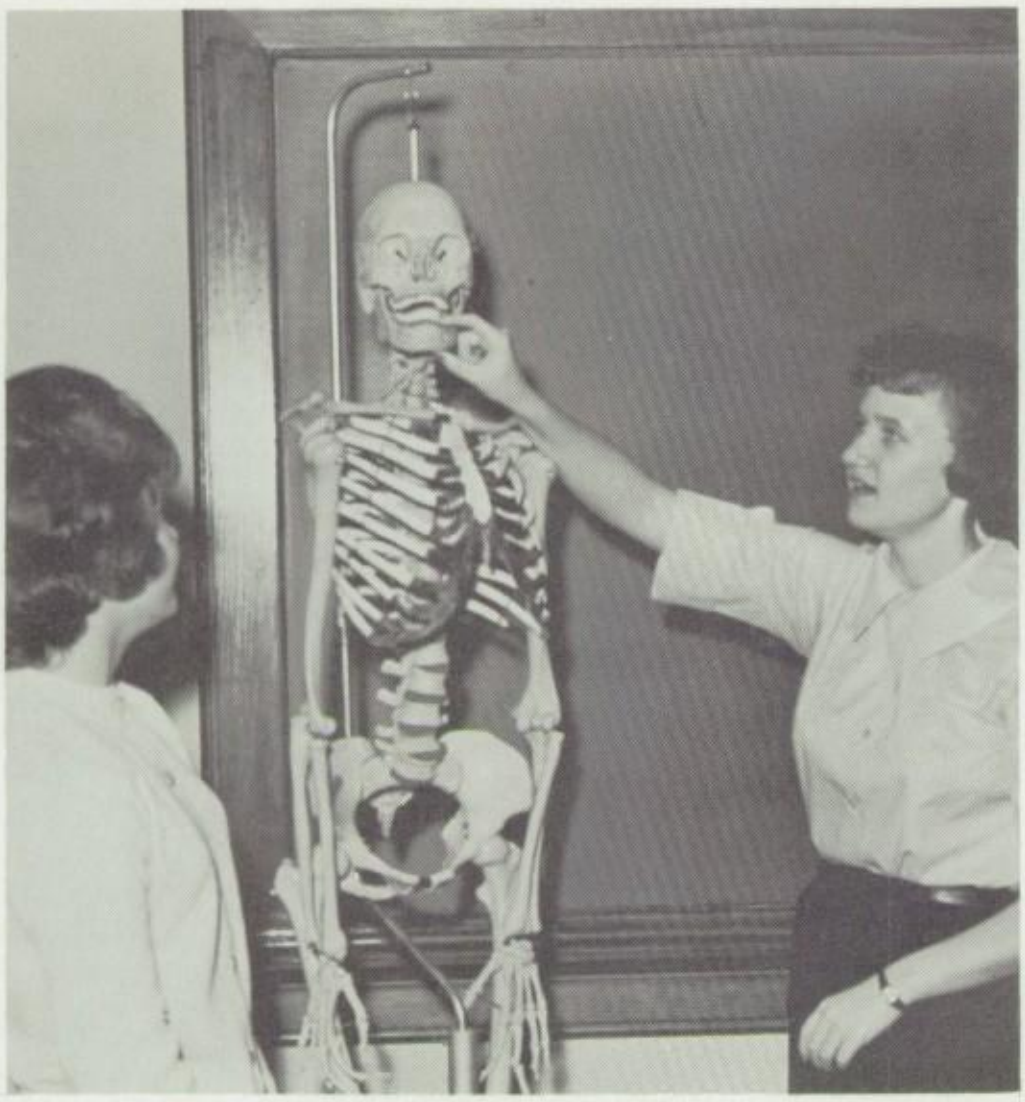
Algebra is the beginning basis for higher mathematics with three semesters in our curriculum. Three semesters of geometry are combined with algebra to round off a three-year program. For students who wish to continue their program in mathematics, trigonometry and senior mathematics are available.

In today's world of earth satellites and atomic power there is an ever-increasing need for people to work in the field of science.

The plants and animals which make up a part of our basic environment are the object of study in the biology classes.

Chemistry deals with the elements and compounds which make up the basic commodities needed by man for survival.

The physics class works on basic theories of matter, energy, heat, light, sound, atomic energy, and electronics. The physics classes, as do all the science classes, have lab work to supplement their text book assignments.



"Learning the anatomy of the body is very important," explains Miss Tunes to Penny Rumler.

Experiments prove to be very interesting to Betty Davis as she takes notes from Mike Brattain, who demonstrates the water-displacement method. In the background Mr. Wolf, Marsan Blakeney, and Charles Haner look on intently.

Natural and Physical Sciences — Confusion

Jenny Bair says to Mr. Horvath, "But, Mr. Horvath, all I can see is your finger!" Pat Paxton takes notes, while Joe Jackson and Ted Mohr observe the parts of the heart.

Timed Writings and Practice Sets Prepare

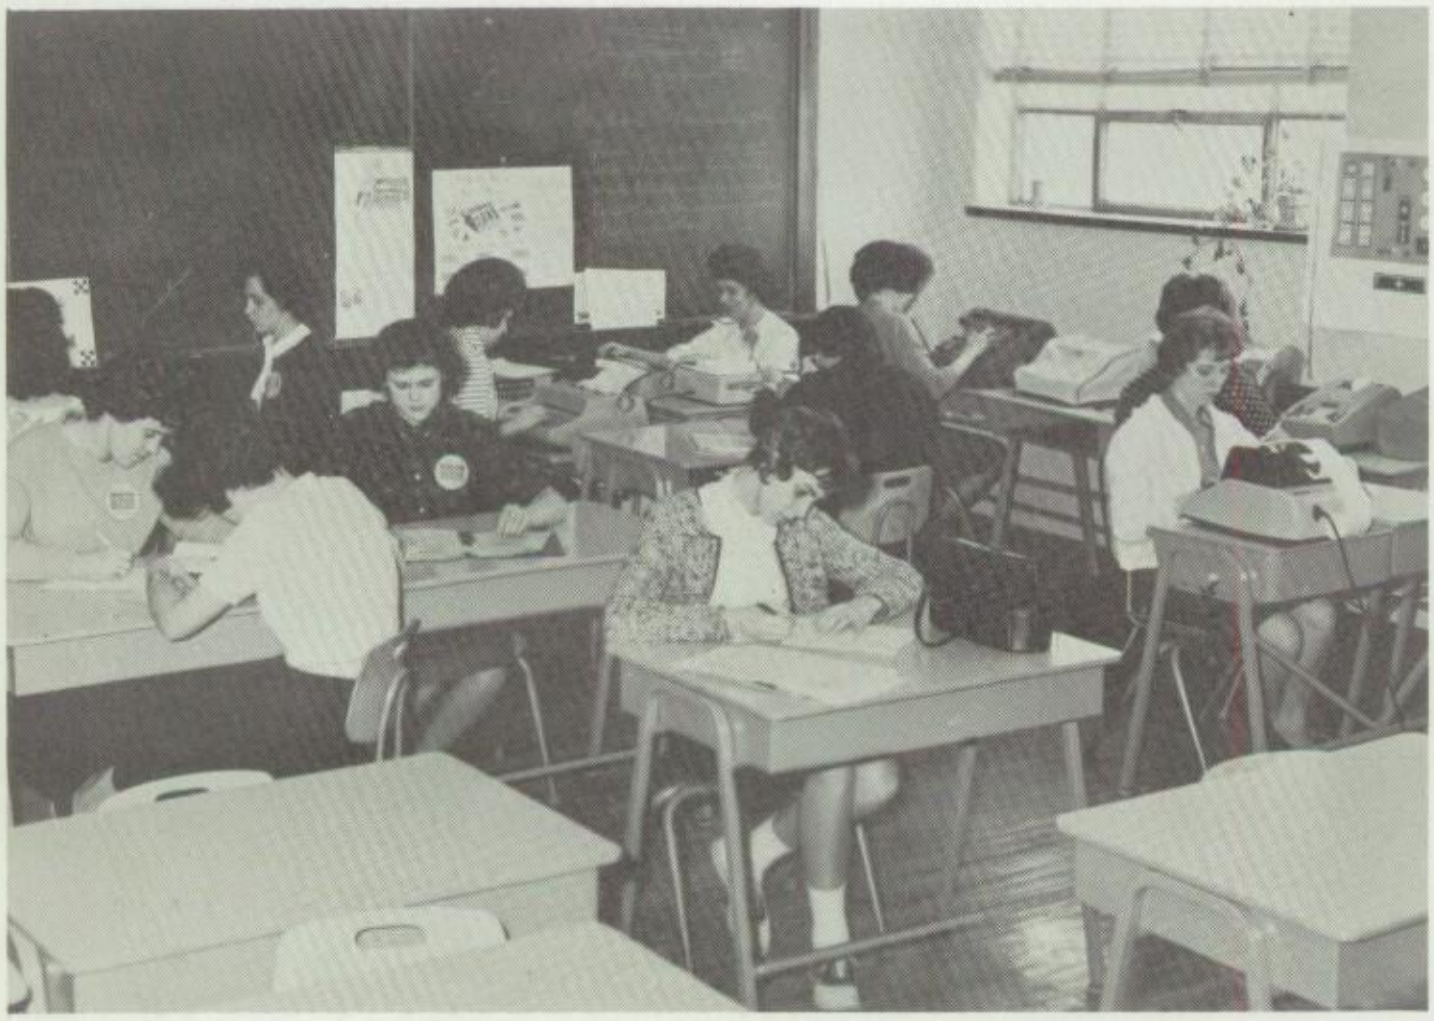
Mrs. Wynant times the advanced shorthand students as she dictates a letter to the class. SEATED: Jane Stupples, Dorothy Elliott, Elaine Elder, Claire Campbell, Betty Norris, Christina Dunn, and Connie Richwine.

Students planning a career in the business field find many educational opportunities in the commerce department. Shorthand develops abilities essential for the role of a modern secretary. Speed and accuracy is the goal. Brief forms and transcriptions create many hours of study.

Office practice gives experience in filing and in machine transcription, mimeographing, duplicating, and various other machines necessary in any business occupation.

Bookkeeping develops the student's abilities in order to meet the accounting necessities of business. Balance sheets, profit and loss statements, work sheets, depreciations, taxes, payrolls, and transactions create valuable experience. Business Math and General Business examine the problems of financing a household, as taxes, budgets, insurance, and credits.

Typing which is offered for two years, is one of the necessary fundamentals for business. Five-minute writings, speed sentences, number drills, letters, and practice sets keep fingers and minds busy, trying to reduce the number of errors.



Senior business students in Business Machines class gain experience with the typewriter, dictaphone, mimeograph and duplicator, adding machine, and numerous other machines important to business firms.

Students Training for the Business World

"Now is the time for all good men . . ." to learn to type with speed and accuracy. Second year typing students learn to develop basic typing skills acquired in previous years.

Occupational Courses Yield Trained Students

Industrial arts classes give boys practical experience with many complex tools which may be an essential part of their future vocation.

Pendleton is fortunate in having a well rounded department of Industrial Arts. The Industrial Arts classes have regular book assignments supplemented by work on the machinery used in their chosen field. This gives them not only theory but practical experience important in today's industry.

The mechanical drawing classes learn the basic fundamentals of architectural drawing and machine drafting. They also learn blue printing on the blue printing machine recently acquired.

The printing classes work on different printing methods and procedures and use their knowledge by actually printing materials on the school's presses.

Physically Fit Students Learn Safe Driving

Driver training is an eighteen-week course in the fundamentals of safe driving. A student receives thirty hours of classroom work acquiring basic knowledge about his car and its usage. He also receives six and a half hours of actual driving experience in the school's training car.

The purpose of the course is to teach young drivers the basic skills of driving and to impress upon them the importance of good driving habits.

The physical education classes strive to create an interest in sporting activities and to promote good physical conditions among high school students.

Students learn the basic fundamentals of many sports such as basketball, track, softball, wrestling, volley ball, and tumbling. Students must also take physical fitness exams. These exams are composed of a number of calisthenics which a student is required to do. The result of all of this is an awakened interest in sports and the physical condition required to play them well.

Class Experience Means Efficient Living

Vocational agriculture combines classroom work with practical experience which the students gain on their home farms. As an integral part of the course, students are required to carry out a productive farm project. These farm projects are then integrated into the course of study. Vocational agriculture prepares boys not only for farming, but also for positions in business which are associated with agriculture and for the advanced study of agriculture at the college level.

Contrary to what many people think, up-to-date home economics is not simply cooking and sewing. It includes study of all phases of home living with the general purpose of encouraging a satisfying personal life in the family and better living in the homes of today. To accomplish this goal, the following units of study are covered in each year of home economics: housing, foods and nutrition, child development, family relationships, textiles and clothing, home nursing, and consumer buying, each year the units being more detailed and specific.

Art can be very creative as Steve Snyder, Sara Shuman, and Cheryl Kuhn discover when they try their luck at sketching.

Artists and Readers Explore Unknown Worlds

Miss Blair helps Melissa Bowden and Janesia Davis find a book for leisure reading.

Musicians, painters, and readers explored new worlds with their activities this year. The band and chorus searched the wonders of the musical world with contests, tours, and concerts. Artists set their imaginations to work as they expressed themselves in oil paintings and portraits. Readers explored many different worlds as they browsed through books of adventure or did research for a report or term paper.

As Irish Team Compiles 18-5 Record

"Up and at 'em" seems to be the slogan as center, Allan Baker, endeavors to get a jump ball.

Apparently "three's the charm" as Coach Carl Floyd rounded up his third year coaching here with the best win-loss record of his career: eighteen wins with five defeats. The Irish came out in the county second only to Alexandria when the tabulating was finished.

In the course of compiling this record the Irish defeated Frankton, then Markleville in gaining our Invitational trophy. In the County Tourney fate came back to us. We defeated Frankton and Markleville as we had done earlier and the previous year, but again fell in the hands of St. Mary's, reliving the nightmare of a year ago.

Winding up the season with a second place conference record to Frankton, we again met the Eagles in play. Defeating the Eagles seemed a charm since it was our third win over them. But the Eagles turned into the Indians and our chance came again to play Anderson. At the final gun, after a trying rally in the fourth quarter, the Indians led and high school basketball came to a close for the varsity squad this year.

Watch that score go up!—as Pendleton drives for another basket.

If you attended the ballgames last winter, you were probably amazed at the continuous outbursts from the north side of the gym. Cheerblock, revised and boosted this year by its sponsor, Miss Tunes, and officers, became noticed and appreciated. The green suspenders and derbies of the Boys' Block, an addition of this year, attracted the attention of all fans.

Many hours of diligent work went into the preparation of spell-outs. The annual Christmas Program was brightened with a formation of candles, a star, a bell, and a Christmas tree.

New records were set this year by the track team in vaulting, running, and high jumping events. Virgil Bankson set a mile record with a 4.28:7 time, while Mike Hanna broke his own record in pole vaulting when vaulting 13 feet 8½ inches. He also tied for first in the Hoosier Relays. The mile relay was also broken by four boys; Jon Crosley, Jim Barnes, Allan Baker, and Virgil Bankson, with a 3.42:3 time. Pendleton placed second in the Pendleton Invitational.

Pendleton's Track Team again won the White River Conference title this year with Mike Hanna bettering the all-time Indiana high school pole vault mark by clearing 13-9.

Bankson was also one of the leading individual scorers in the meet. He won the mile run in 4:40.7 to erase the old mark of 4:47.

For the third straight season, the Irish cross country team came out on top in conference wins. Besides the conference title, the Irish gained victories in decisive meets. In the sectional they came out on top to advance to the regional where the team was defeated. All was not lost though. Virgil Bankson placed in the running to go on to the state meet where he came through with a fifth place victory to bring honor to our school. Bankson was voted the most valuable runner.

The wrestling team this year had a very respectable season. The final record for the team was six wins and seven losses. Wins were over Lebanon, Centerville, Hancock Central twice, and Madison Heights twice. Losses were to some of the better teams and much larger schools. To wrap up their high school wrestling careers, three seniors placed in the sectional as follows:

Captain Sonny Clark—third at 154 pounds.
Bob Post—fourth at 127 pounds.
Bill Hopkins—fourth at 165 pounds.

Next year's team looks very promising with five returning lettermen: John Alley, Steve Sell, Roger Jacobs, Steve Lewark, and Dennis Noel. All weights above 154 pounds will be open since all of these boys are seniors.

Scores for the 1962-63 season:

	T	W
Noblesville	47	3

The Student Council carried on its extensive work through the school year. Their numerous convocations brought not only a change in the school calendar, but also inspiring, educational, and entertaining programs for our benefit.

Locker checks and the election of the school mascot were the first activities to be carried out. The annual pep session on Green and Gold Day ended with Dorin Purkey, Ann Martin, and Sandy Wilson as this year's winners. The Christmas tree decorations added color indoors, while the Car Check Queen contest came with spring.

Students and Journalists Gain Honors

The National Honor Society is an esteemed organization in which only members of the two upper classes may anticipate enrollment. Scholarship, character, service, and leadership are the fields in which a student must excel in order to be considered for membership. This year 14 new members were added to the roll.

Prominence in some phase of journalism may lead to membership in Quill and Scroll. This international organization was formed to recognize students with outstanding achievements in this field. Scholarship and recommendation by the adviser and the national secretary are the only other requirements for a student to become a member. This year eleven students were inducted into this organization. For them it may be a beginning into the world of journalism.

Band Days, Tour, and Variety Show

The Pendleton High School Band began the year with the Farmers' Day Parade at the Indiana State Fair and a concert at the Fall Festival in September. Led by drum major Alan Jarrett and head majorette Billie Tolbert and preceded by the Irishettes, the band participated in the Indiana University Band Day and the Veteran's Day Parade in Anderson, and provided halftime entertainment at the home ballgames during basketball season. Solo and ensemble contest entries brought many frantic moments for those members attending. Pendleton students heard concerts from the bands and choruses of Summitville and Frankton as the music department sponsored exchange programs this year. Spring brought on candy sales and planning for "Variety '63" which highlighted the year with music from the concert band and dance band and dances and routines from the majorettes and Irishettes.

The Choir began spreading good will by taking a tour to Frankton and Summitville where they gave a concert before the student body. A Sunday afternoon concert for the Pendleton community, a concert at the E.U.B. Church, and singing at baccalaureate completed the year's activities.

The Industrial Arts Club was formed during the second semester of this year, making it the newest club at Pendleton High.

Club members work on projects in the field in which they are interested. Plastics, auto mechanics, and drafting are among the most popular fields. The guest speakers and field trips helped to broaden the students' knowledge of their fields and to stimulate an interest in other fields.

High school girls interested in athletics participated actively in sports through the Girls' Athletic Association. Meeting every Tuesday, they spent the year playing softball, basketball, volleyball, bowling, swimming, and running track and field.

Rhoda Riley and Kenneta Hammond attended G.A.A. camp at Delphi, Indiana, in October; and on December 1, Pendleton was represented at the Ball State Basketball Clinic by Tonya Wimmer and Kathryn Rogers.

Christian Service and Social Activities

Tri-Hi-Y is a Christian service organization which is open for membership to all junior and senior girls with a C average who accept the purpose of Tri-Hi-Y. Under the leadership of Miss Forsberg, the club accomplished its year's goals.

Members combined work for charity with fun in its activities. Many of these projects were in coordination with those of the Hi-Y. Participation in the club's activities was noted by the merit system. The member receiving the most merits received recognition as Tri-Hi-Y Girl of the Year.

Inspire Teens in Earning Merits

The Hi-Y club, true to its creed as a Christian service organization, performed many worthwhile public services and provided a wide variety of social activities for its members.

In October they were hosts for the District Convention. They painted the art gallery downtown and threw a party for the painters. A trip to National Health Studios in Indianapolis, caroling with the Tri-Hi-Y, a swimming party at the Y, and a tour of the Reformatory kept the members in a whirl. Spring found them throwing the Basket Brawl and putting on the Easter convocation. In May they elected officers and planned a camp-out.

Provide Goals for Sunshine Girls

The Sunshine girls striving to accomplish "helpfulness and kindness to others" found themselves caught up in a whirlwind of bustling activities. They began collecting "keys" to build toward a "Sunshine Key Ring," by using a new theme for each month.

The cafeteria took on a festive air for "Christmas in Gold," the annual Hi-Y and Sunshine Dance.

Many girls were seen holding open doors and carrying books to classes for the boys as the Sunshine again sponsored "Twirp Week." A Sadie Hawkins Dance was the climax of the week.

In addition to giving to the Riley Fund, the organization contributed to their own nursing scholarship given locally. They wound up the year with a party honoring the seniors.

They found working together to be very rewarding as the new merit system was set up. This provided that each girl would get a certain number of points for active participation and work in the club. The girl with the highest number of merit points at the end of the year was chosen "Sunshine Girl of the Year."

"Is that wide enough?" asks Joan Webb as she opens the door for Dick Young. Such scenes were in their right place at P.H.S. during Twirp Week.

World Events Fascinate Enthusiasts

S.O.C. is an organization devoted to the battle against communism and to the propagation of democratic and Christian principles. The goal of S.O.C. is to awaken youth to the philosophy, strategy, and tactics of communism, causing them to adopt effective measures of counter-action dedicated to the defeat of communism.

The International Relations Club was founded for the purpose of promoting greater understanding between the people of different nationalities. One of the club's most important functions was the selection and sponsoring of delegates to the Model United Nations held at Anderson College.

Círculo Hispánico, organized this year, was created for all Spanish students who wanted to have real Española fun. Círculo members, singing in Spanish, brought cheerful greetings to the community at Christmas. The annual Fiesta, with a flavorful Spanish meal and the traditional piñata, topped the year's activities.

Although only two years old, the Science Club already has a following of thirty hard-core members and an envious record of achievements. The club was founded in order to stimulate an interest in the field of science. This year they held a science fair to raise money for their scholarship fund, which will aid needy science students. Lectures, movies, field trips and work on the new natural history museum were some of the activities in which science club members participated.

Anxiety and Worry Accompany Acting

On the third Monday of each month a small but dedicated group of aspiring young thespians assembled to learn more of the acting trade. General business, lectures on make-up, and discussions of current plays were on the agenda. Members had a chance to display their acting ability in "Pop Reads a Christmas Carol," in a special children's play, and in an adult play for the general public.

Arlene Bradbury attempts to give Alan Jarrett a maturing appearance for the Christmas play as John Pegg and Darlene Stephenson add the last minute touches to their make-up.

"I Would Like to Know . . ."

Student secretaries are always busy with their many responsibilities such as collecting absence slips, answering the telephone, collecting cafeteria money, and performing countless errands for teachers.

Student librarians are willing and eager to give assistance to students and teachers looking for information, for a report, or for just a good book for leisure reading. They answer the student's query "I would like to know. . . . ."

These hard-working assistant librarians are occupied throughout the entire school year helping students find various material. They are Ruth Ella Boots, Kathy Rector, Jane Filbrun, and Sally Davis.

in Friendship . . .

In discussing the events for the coming year, Dennis Latour, president, suggests a trip to Hawaii for the senior class. The other officers think this a little too extravagant! Mr. Keithley and Miss Payton, sponsors; Nancy Jones, vice-president; Nanci Walters, secretary; and Susan Morris, treasurer.

After four short years we have achieved the goal that we as freshmen sought. We have had our parties and club meetings. We went to the ball games and to the prom. We laughed, and we cried; we had our "ups" and our "downs", but always we were as one. Soon, almost too soon, it was here—graduation!

As we think of the future, we are slightly awed. We know that the fun and good times of high school are over. Some of us are planning for college, others for future jobs. This is the turning point in our lives. We are facing the future unafraid because we know we are well prepared. We are ready to meet the challenges which the future will bring.

Though we may soon be forgotten, we will never forget Pendleton High and the many wonderful memories of our high school days. We will always look back and say proudly, "I went to P. H. S. !"

BYRON SMITH

"Polynesian Paradise," the theme of the 1962 Junior-Senior Prom, gave a South Sea atmosphere to a spectacular evening.

Look Ahead with High Hopes and Ambitions

The public telephone is the site of many amusing incidents according to Shirley Ridge, Rise Buss, and Larry Campfield.

Stage Fright, Concessions, Hasty

Looking over the calendar of activities for the coming month are the Junior Class officers and sponsors: Mr. Hoover and Mr. Berry, sponsors; Trudi Hoffman, vice president; Jerry White, treasurer; Virgil Mabrey, president; Susan Robertson, secretary.

This has been a year packed full of activities for the juniors. Starting with the presentation of their class play, "The Night of January 16," they were caught in a continuous whirl of activities which included that long-awaited prom. Planning ahead for a class trip next year, they were forced to look into their treasury and to become a class of junior salesmen, knocking on door after door with magazines or falling over feet and spilling cokes trying to sell at the ballgames. This year was marked by activity periods filled with meetings, those heaven-sent convocations which rescued them from tests, many wild record hops, and hasty minutes spent in last-minute cramming.

Yes, this has truly been a year of work, worry, and waiting, but they managed to survive. The experiences they had working for their class and the good times they had with their friends helped make this a year they will remember forever.

Leaves, Frogs, Sweaters, Rings, ...

Sophomores killed the back-to-school blues with a lively fall party. Other activities included sponsoring a dance to help fill their class treasury, and selecting class rings. Many stopped to take special notice of the sophomores' attractive beige with dark brown and white trimmed sweaters. Many autumn leaves found a place in the sophomores' leaf collections where it was hoped they would result in an A. Members of the class survived the process of dissecting those little creatures known as frogs. Many sophomores proudly drove around town displaying their newly acquired skill in manipulating a car.

Introduction to High School Life Presents

At the outset of the school year, the freshmen began to get an exciting introduction to high school life. They became familiar with new courses, trying to comprehend such signs as + and – in algebra and striving to master "buenos di'as" in Spanish. They were entitled to take active parts in clubs and organizations such as Spanish Club, Sunshine, G.A.A., Cheerblock, and the Science Club. The class party was the highlight of their activities. Now that they have attained confidence, they look forward to the challenges future high school years will bring.

Here's something you should look into RESEARCH. Scientific research. There has never been a time when man has progressed so rapidly from the fruits of scientific research. Never before have good researchers been more in demand.

Here at Delco-Remy a few decades ago, research was concerned with developing better electrical systems for the automotive industry. Later we expanded our activities to include power and control requirements of boats and aircraft. Today our research projects include devices and systems for electrical power in outer space.

To help meet the increasing demand for better electrical systems, we have just completed a new ultra-modern research and engineering center in Anderson, Indiana. It has been carefully designed to provide the most agreeable environment possible for imaginative research. But ideal facilities are of no consequence unless they are utilized by creative, imaginative researchers.

If you have a young inquiring mind, think about and prepare for a future in scientific research. It's a space age career where the sky is not the limit.

Once again we are ready to close another chapter of the history of P.H.S. We will march forward in the rapidly changing world whether we again return to school here or start paths to college or jobs. We will keep moving in this ever-changing world for many years to come. Some day we will fondly recall our high school days and get out our 1963 Papyrus, prepared by the Delaware Engraving and Lithograph Company of Muncie, to refresh our memories. These memories of serious moments and frantic activities will be renewed as we look at the pictures photographed by Reid's Studio of Muncie and by Delmar Studios of Anderson. We will recall the guidance and kindness of the teachers as they helped—THE IRISH SET THE PACE.
